My dear Mr. Lummis;

I got your note about the book today and inclose check for $1.50. for copy. . . . I have had some fine moments with your stuff and so have my boys; one especially, John, wants to know you very much. I called at your house one afternoon with Harry Knibbs, while you were away. . . . The other afternoon enjoyed watching you read your mail on the street car, and keep going a most interesting looking cigar at the same time. Wasn't sure at first, but then saw your name on one of the ^{envelopes} ~~letters~~. Another time I would have made myself known, but you seemed very busy and happy.

With admiring regard,

Will Levington Comfort

Dear Mr. Comfort:

That is no sort of a Frontier fashion-- not to speak to a man on the car if you feel like it! I am neither brittle nor touchy!

That is interesting-- that you and your boys have read some of my stuff-- and I should be glad to see you and John and any of the others. Sunday afternoon after two o'clock a sure time for me-- other dates at your own risk, unless you phone before. I hope you won't postpone it.

I sent you the Song Book-- and because you sort of called it down on your own head I have taken the liberty to autograph it.

With best wishes,

Sincerely Yours,
